DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-10 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1, 2, 4-6, and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Smith (US 5275830) in view of LaBaw et al. (US 4784867) as evidenced by Brennan (Food Dehydration: A Dictionary and Guide). The references and rejection are incorporated herein and as cited in the office action mailed October 7, 2005.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Smith (US 5275830) and LaBaw et al. (US 4784867) as evidenced by Brennan (Food Dehydration: A Dictionary and Guide), further in view of Lund et al. (ed.) (Microbiological Safety and Quality of Food, Volumes 1-2). The references and rejection are incorporated herein and as cited in the office action mailed October 7, 2005.

Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Smith (US 5275830) and LaBaw et al. (US 4784867) as evidenced by Brennan (Food Dehydration: A Dictionary and Guide), further in view of Prosise et al. (US 2002/0015760 A1). The references and rejection are incorporated herein and as cited in the office action mailed October 7, 2005.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of Smith (US 5275830) and LaBaw et al. (US 4784867) as evidenced by Brennan (Food Dehydration: A Dictionary and Guide), further in view of Gibson et al. (ed) (Functional Foods). The references and rejection are incorporated herein and as cited in the office action mailed October 7, 2005.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 27, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the rejection teaches away from the present invention, specifically the Labaw reference, applicant is referred to the abstract (of the Labaw reference), which teaches a moist and flexible product. Furthermore, the excerpt from Labaw, from which applicant has based their argument, is related to prior art and not the invention of Labaw (i.e. the invention which is relied upon in the present and previous office action) and is regarding different product components (i.e. whole nutmeals and large fruit fragments) than the invention which is relied upon in the present and previous office action. Thus, the passage which applicant cites is not relevant to the issue at hand.

Regarding applicant's argument in regard to the binder composition itself and the degree of hardness in the resulting product, applicant is referred to the previous office action, Smith, and Labaw, in which

Art Unit: 1761

- Smith teaches a food bar, with a density of not more than 1.1 g/cm³ (Column 7 lines 32-36), comprising:
 - Dried fruit pieces with a moisture content of 15-30% (Column 7 lines 38-48)
 - A binder composition which includes corn syrup or high fructose corn syrup (column 4 lines 43-50)
- Labaw teaches a food bar comprising:
 - Dried fruit pieces (Abstract and Column 6 lines 31-34)
 - A binder composition which includes corn syrup or high fructose corn syrup and has a hardness level of 0.15-3 kg/cm² (column 3 line 25 to column 4 line 50)

The references teach of the same binder composition (i.e. corn syrup or high fructose corn syrup) as applicant (Specification paragraph 0025), the same components as applicant (i.e. dried fruit pieces- Specification paragraph 0009), and a food bar density that is the same as applicants (Specification paragraph 0011). Therefore, it would have been expected that the combined references teach of the same hardness level as applicant. Applicant is reminded that where the claimed and prior art products are identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, or are produced by identical or substantially identical processes, a prima facie case of either anticipation or obviousness has been established. In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1255, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). "When the PTO shows a sound basis for believing that the products of the applicant and the prior art are the same, the applicant has the burden of showing that they are not." In re Spada, 911F.2d 705, 709, 15 USPQ2d 1655, 1658 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
